- Green economy: “Is one that is environmentally friendly, with abundant resources that are shared fairly and results in better human well-being in the society”.

Question 1

It is said, you cannot conserve what you do not monitor. Effective monitoring is therefore critical to resource use efficiency. Briefly describe how your organization monitors consumption of water and or energy resources. Include data on meter readings, monthly consumption analysis and reduction targets over time. You can provide graphs and other pictorial representation as evidence. Records submitted should be up to the last 2 years.

(Max -400 words)

Question 2

In wise resource use innovation is needed to reduce consumption, wastage and even emissions. This can be achieved through use of renewable energy, water/energy saving equipment, relevant policies, reuse and recycling of resources etc. Demonstrate your innovation and investment towards energy and or water resources efficiency. What has been the impact of these innovations on resource use in your organization?

(Max – 300 words)

Question 3

Part of responsible resource use is engaging staff and guests to achieve your consumption targets. This drives conservation and influences individuals' attitude towards scarce resources such as energy and water. Describe your avenues for spreading relevant information and engaging guests and staff in responsible resource use. Provide Evidence.

(Max -200 words)

Question 4

Responsible consumption of goods and resources starts at procurement level. Please describe how responsible production and consumption has been integrated into your procurement e.g. procurement policy, working with sustainable suppliers, engaging local suppliers, environmental considerations when making purchases etc.

(Max-250 words)

Question 5

Waste management is part of responsible consumption. Waste management should follow a hierarchy of actions including reduction, reuse, recycling and recovery. Other components of proper waste management include monitoring through separation, weighing, analysis and reduction targets over time. Describe waste management at your organization and provide monitoring records. The records provided should be up to two years.

(Max- 300 words)
